Justin's position at the CIP	00:36	Founder
The Marilyn Mulero Case	00:58
What Justin is doing to help Marilyn	11:20
Do you ever think you're wasting your time	14:29
Flawed Justice System	14:50
Next steps for Marilyn & for Justin/ U.N. Intervention	15:50
Never going to give up	16:25
Advice for Mulero	17:10
Has case prompted more political activity	18:30	case is what actually inspired him to start CIP and Innocents projects in Mexico, Costa Rica, Argentina, Chile, and many places around the world
positive examples of CIP that helped provide encouragement	19:20	Brian Banks, football players, and many other people who were exonerated after 20 years. when he loses case that person dies in prison, they are the end of the line. the losses are really heavy. you never see all the losses and there is a lot of them
what international work looks like	21:32	got american out of nicaragua, working against many fabricated cases, particular interest in latin america, half of work is latin american training work
description of emotions and/or pride	24:00	anyone who is a social activist will tell you is that you gotta focus on the case in front of you cause thats where you can make a difference. size of problem is overwhelming. changing lives of individuals feels amazing. never really focused on making money

walk to sacramento	26:08	hardest thing hed done in his life but also the best thing hed done in his life; inspired by 12 cases. because of size of state very hard to get governor's attention over anything. decided to walk from san diego to sacramento to get governors attention; 50 days. inspired him to want to do the camino de santiago
message you want to get out to public	29:45	already been on many talk shows; people have to understans that people dont get trials anymore; 95% of trials are lead by pleas; more success in latin america bringing team of attorneys together; do we really want to be the country that has highest number of incarcerations; something broken in the US
three strikes law	32:25	the three strikes law is absolutely absurd; disgraced that that is a law; when people ask him overseas what the social experiments behind the three strikes law is, he has to respond with baseball; americans like baseball, and in baseball you get three strikes and then youre out. everything is wrong about three strikes. everything what CIP can do to better the system	35:08	only so many causes CIP can take up; decided to work with innocent people because the general public only cares about innocent people, he can do more reform when public cares
what do you try to convey to law students	36:18	bring in law students, give them their own cases to handle, and then learn from experience, from doing, like HTH
